

Amateur and school teams using Indian names

Colleges and universities

- Current Usage
 - Alcorn State University - Lorman, Mississippi (Braves) Logo is a large A, no indication of Native American imagery being used.
 - Bacone College - Muskogee, Oklahoma (Warriors) was founded as a Cherokee Baptist Mission school and retains a connection to several tribes. ^[4]
 - Bradley University - Peoria, Illinois (Braves)
 - Central Michigan University - Mount Pleasant, Michigan (Chippewas)
 - Chowan University - Murfreesboro, North Carolina (Braves)
 - Florida State University - Tallahassee, Florida (Seminoles) - Use of the Seminole name and imagery is supported by representatives of the Seminole Tribe of Florida and some members of the Seminole Nation of Oklahoma, two of three federally recognized Seminole tribes. ^[5]
 - University of Hawaii at Manoa - (Hawai'i Rainbow Warriors) and (Rainbow Wahine) Since 2000, each team has been allowed to select its own mascot name; most notably, the football team has been simply known as "The Warriors".
 - Mississippi College - Clinton, Mississippi (Choctaws)
 - Ottawa University - Ottawa, Kansas (Braves)

 - University of North Carolina at Pembroke (Braves) – representing a college originally created to educate American Indians
 - University of Utah - Salt Lake City, Utah (Utes)
- Prior Usage
 - University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign - have removed all official university sanction of Native American imagery, but unofficially, still widely used by students and fans - there is considerable controversy over whether the term "Illini" as originally used at the university was directly related to Native American culture at all, or whether the imagery was added after the fact; documentation tends to indicate that "Illini" refers to the state of Illinois itself and not its indigenous peoples. ^[6]
 - Eastern Michigan University Hurons - changed to Eagles in 1991.
 - Texas Tech Red Raiders does not use Native American imagery.
 - University of North Dakota dropped its Fighting Sioux nickname in 2012.
 - William & Mary Tribe – no longer uses any imagery related to indigenous peoples
